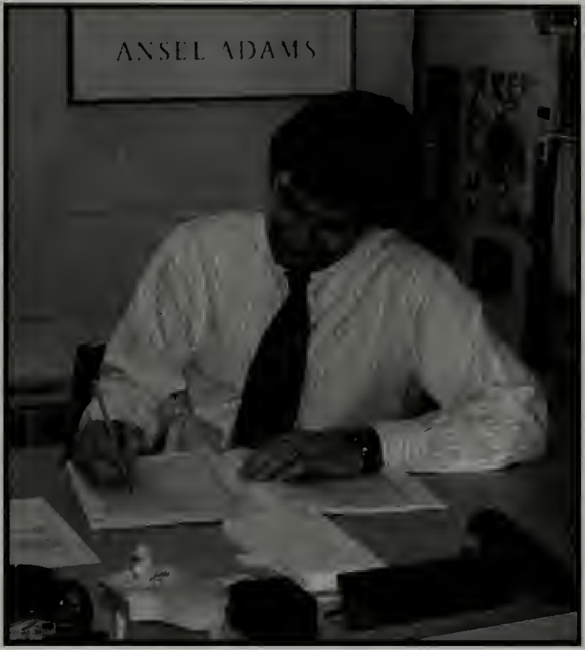
I Will Remember....

Undoubtedly, we 'll all have something different we will remember best from the last four years. Fortunately, we have a multitude of happy memories to choose from, whether it's an academic accomplishment or that perfect night spent out laughing and partying with friends. And it's been with friends that we've experienced so many different things and it's our friends that have given us so many of our memories. And while not all of our memories are as happy and joyful as we would like them to be, we also recall the way our friends stepped in during those situations and helped us make it to another day. And now, as we graduate from one phase of our lives into the next, and step boldly into the real world, each going our separate ways, it is these memories and these experiences that will transcend everything else and allow us to face whatever the world presents for challenges.

DEDICATION



The class of 2000 proudly dedicates "I Will Remember...," the 2000 Masacksic to Mr. Michael Mucci. Over the last 22 years, Mr. Mucci has been an influential part of many students' lives at LHS. His dedication, humor, love for music, and constant demand for the best from his students have made Mr. Mucci well-respected by students, faculty, and parents.

Members of the class of 2000 have walked into Mr. Mucci's room for a variety of reasons. Whether it was our first day of orchestra, concert band, or wind ensemble we walked in nervous about what would be expected of us and how we would perform. From the very beginning we were called "rookies" but never given a break - -everything that was expected of the "veterans" was expected from us. We quickly learned through night rehearsals and Saturday retreats that we'd better be ready to give 110% of ourselves everyday because this is what he gives to every class he teaches.

Furthermore, over the last few years many of us have had the opportunity to get to know Mr. Mucci outside of the classroom setting, and we have learned and seen more than we ever expected we would. We have seen his true love for music and everything connected to it; we have seen the enthusiasm he has for music carry over into everything else he does--into concern for his students, and even into his love for the Yankees and everything Italian. And over the years, Mr. Mucci has taught us more than just rhythm and beat and music. He has taught us about dedication, determination, inspiration and passion. He has taught us about life.

Mr. Mucci has been our teacher, our mentor, our advisor, and our friend. He has had an influence on everyone he has taught, and, for this and so much more, we thank Mr. Mucci and he will remain an unforgettable part of our past and futures.

We Will Remember....

Pat Chelli (1981-1999)

During the last seventeen years many of us had the opportunity to know Pat Chelli. Whether we just said hi to him in the halls or we spent time with him outside of school, we knew the kind, funny, and sincere person he was. We all have different memories of our experiences with Pat, and we will each remember something unique about him. And, we will take that memory with us wherever we go.

"Pat was the type of person who never let things get him down and he always had a big grin on his face. Pat was always looking for a good time, and it didn't matter where he found it, whether it was dirt biking or fast food -- he never complained. As long as he was around he enjoyed life to the fullest, while making a lasting impression on everyone that met him. Pat led a carefree life that was full of adventure and the wonderful memories that he left behind. A special part of Pat will always be in the hearts of those who knew him."

-Kevin Miller and Jim Weinmann

> "We call that person who has lost his father, an orphan; and a widower that man who has lost his wife. But that man who has known the immense unhappiness of losing a friend, by what name do we call him? Here every language is silent and holds its peace in impotence."

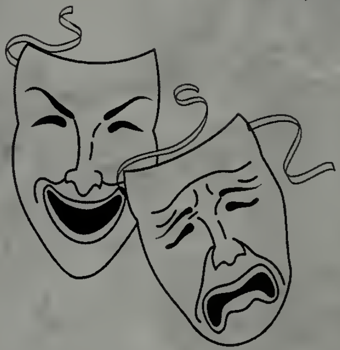
I Will Remember...

By: Your Senior Class Officers

It's tradition that every year the yearbook includes a letter from the Senior Class Advisors, asking them to look back and share their memories of the class officers and the class which they've had the opportunity and pleasure of working with over the past four years. But, we never get the chance to hear from the Senior Class Officers themselves. But all of that's changing this year. We (that is your editors) cornered the officers in a hallway and forced them to come up with at least one fond and happy memory of their year at the Head of the Class. We made them forget their early morning homeroom meetings (their required early morning meetings that is) and we made them forget Lev's endless list of ideas and the whole period of time when Senior Week looked out of the question. And after some pleading and some not so innocent threats, we finally got their answers. So, here are some of the things they'll remember:

"The success of 'Kiss A Pig'."

"Choosing the senior class play"



"Finding out that there are still some good-hearted people out there. People who forget what they've heard and are willing to give people a second chance. And those people are the owners of the Log Cabin, who have opened their establishment to us so that we may have our Prom. "

A look back and best wishes from your advisors...

Congratulations to the Class of 2000 -

Well, here it is, the end of four long years of hard work. As your advisors we would like to say some parting words, and relive some memories, before you enter the new millennium and embark "on the rest of your life" (which by the way is also hard work, but at least you get paid).

Working the past two years as your class advisors had been a fabulous way to better acquaint ourselves with many of the wonderful and talented members of the Class of 2000. We would like to thank the officers with whom we have had the pleasure of working with--Ted B., Ted S., Bri, Lev, Alicia and Jake. We will miss homeroom and all of Lev's great ideas - maybe someday one of his ideas will make him millions.

The highlight of the two years was the wonderful performances by the seniors involved in Guys and Dolls. It was inspiring to see your directors (thanks Eric and Jess!) help guide you to putting on a fabulous show, one that people will talk about for years. There is certainly some talent in the class, and we all know to keep our eyes open for Jake and Joe in an upcoming Star Wars sequel.

Your officers and fellow classmates have worked to help organize various events over the last few years. There was the trip to Boston to see a Red Sox game and a Millenium dance where Jesus made an appearance, but then suddenly left. There were many fund-raisers held--some were successful (who could forget the way Mr. O'Shea kissed the Pig?) and some not so successful (does anyone have an extra pair of boxers?)

All in all it was a great experience and a good time. We want to wish all of you the best of luck and happiness as you leave LHS and we are expecting some great things from the Class of 2000 in the future. We can't wait for the day when we'll say, "We knew them when...!"

Congratulations,
Meredith Laughlin and Jamie Dibbern

They left behind all of the tunnels they had worked so hard on while they were there...So the last ant stayed there, still working hard, moving little grains of sand. I watched it until it made it's way to the top of the farm. Finally when it was ready, it left confident, ready to face the future."

Most Embarrassing Moment

I fell down the main hall stairs and laughed so hard that I peed in my pants
I had my snap pants ripped off in front of the football team - I wasn't wearing any shorts
I fell flat on my face after being announced at my basketball game
Missing the '97 Superbowl
Skipping school and crashing into a tree
I have no shame
Asking Joe to the sophomore semi

What was your best excuse for lateness to a class?

I fell up the stairs
I couldn't get my key out of the ignition
I got arrested
The toilet monster ate me
I couldn't find my pants
My watch is on Central Time
I thought it was Saturday
Mr. Ellis has been talking to me for the past three days

What makes LHS unique?

The size of freshmen
Joe Mujalli
The Orange Hallway
Teacher/Student relationships
The Parking Lot
The Open Space
Our Pseudo Pep-Rally
Lack of Senior Privileges

If you could have changed one thing about your years at LHS it would be...

I would have complained more
Seniors would have senior privileges
I wouldn't have stayed for studies
I would have transferred
I wouldn't have stressed so much freshman year- COLLEGES DON'T CARE ABOUT IT!
I wouldn't have had knee problems
Free Blocks would have been nice...
I wouldn't change a thing!

Which class will you remember the most and why?

Spanish III with Sr. Riccio, it was muy loca!
U.S. History II with Mr. Fitzgerald because you could spend the whole block just arguing with him
Constitutional Issues... you never know when your rights will come in handy!
Chemistry with Mr. Goodwin, it was just an awesome class!
French V with Mr. Potvin, you never knew what might happen
Music, I've taken it all four years
AP History because it was really, really hard
Mrs. Shea's math class- she was an overall great teacher

Have you had a driving mishap?

I hit my basketball hoop and two parked cars
I went the wrong way down Riverdale Road
Yes! I backed into the tree in my yard
I left school with a friend and got into an accident
I got a ticket for not wearing my seatbelt, even though I really was
I backed into Jess Hill's van in front of the whole football team. I only had my permit
I hit a patch of ice, spun out and hit a tree
I have no recollection of that incident...

"I found myself without morals where it all began. Looking on the place where we all want to live. I stopped to see forever, not wanting to see wrong. I continued, I stopped not rightly to clear my head for a moment and traveled on three weeks. At the third week I looked to my heart to see love and so I followed so many battles. I fought pain in my left hand and looking for peace in my right. Extended out I have walked away from my heart and crossed the last day. I looked right into the valley of evil and found the home of the beast on to my enemy I have done wrong through to the land of the heart I can do no wrong no more. I see the devil and he finds me, but aren't devils merely angels stearing away your quilt? Stopped on the last day of the last month of the last year and again I found my heart, my life must be righteous in a place unknown. So I can rest my soul where it all began."

If you could paint a mural, where and what would it be?

I'd paint a mural in the cafeteria of the cast of "Dallas" or maybe "The Dukes of Hazzard"
A row of lockers where there isn't one
I would paint Mrs. Sutter as a race car driver on the walls of the cafeteria
Main hall - palm trees
A senior lounge in the main hallway
A night scene on the ceiling of the cafeteria

The varying extreme temperatures
The inane rules
Parking
Hall monitors
The various odors that waft out from the cafeteria

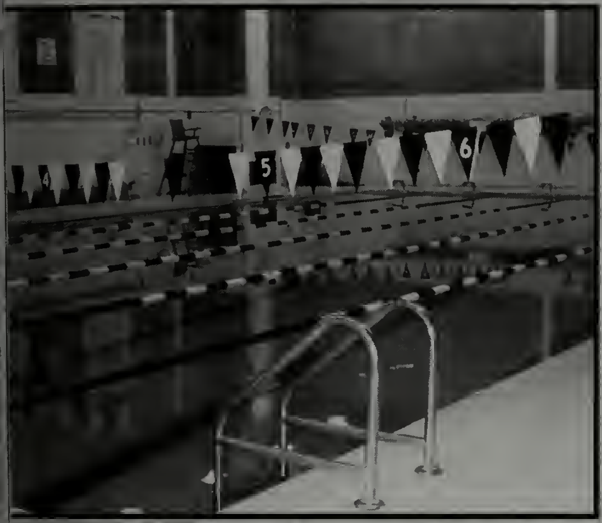
FRESHMAN YEAR: It was the year that started it all. We all have out own personal and favorite memories of freshman year, but there are some things that all of us will remember for at least the next few years. After all, who could forget spending a year of lunches smushed up against the far wall of the cafeteria. Or never stopping at your locker to deposit one of the five books you were carrying around, in fear that you might be late for class if you did. But at least we all knew that it was just the beginning, and could only get better from here....(or so we thought!)



SOPHOMORE YEAR: Well, we made it through the first year and we were on our way, anxious to see what the second year at LHS would have in store for us. Notoriously the easiest of our four high school years many of us made our way through American Lit, US History I, Algebra, and either Chem or Bio without too many bumps along the way. Unfortunately though, we did have to spend little over a month in the thing this school likes to call a pool. However, Sophomore Year did have it's perks -- there was the class trip to see "Bring in da Noise, Bring in da Funk" and, who could forget the now infamous Sophomore Lock-in. And with another successful year behind us, we trudged ahead into the most dreaded of years...

UNIOR YEAR: And so, it finally came. What many call the most important, nd most stressful, year of high school, junior year was upon us. It challenged us with AP ourses, another year of US history, physics (perhaps the most dreaded class in the history of igh school courses), and above all else the SATS!! But we faced it head-on and most of scaped unharmed by the stress and sleepless nights and even managed to make an appearance t our first Junior-Senior Semi-Formal. Unfortunately, the dance was pretty much the only lass activity held that year as our class tried everything possible to put money in the class easury. One good thing to come out of the year was that some of us were also fortunate ough to get our licenses and even a car. And thinking the worst was behind us, we looked rward to senior year and the rewards and relaxation it promised....if we only knew

SENIOR YEAR: The year began full of hope, as we looked forward to somewhat easier class schedules, and only half a year of school -- because we all know that it doesn't matter after the second quarter. However, what a lot of us weren't prepared for were long nights, and long mornings, as sleep became a foreign concept to many. Starbucks was soon able to recognize seniors and know their favorite drinks as they made appearances both before and after school. And a discussion on senior year would not be complete without a mention of College Applications!! Writing and rewriting essays, sending transcripts and scores, tied up a lot of our time both before the November and January deadlines. But come the end of the second quarter, we were all able to relax and true senioritis set in as sleeping in became part of the daily routine. Finally, the year ended with an abbreviated Senior Week with High Meadows in May and the Prom and Graduation in June. All in all it was an exciting four years, it had it's ups and downs, good times and bad, but I think I speak for all of us (well, at least some of us) when I say that "I'm glad it's over!"

EARLIER, THE SENIORS TOLD US WHAT THEY FELT THEY'D REMEMBER MOST ABOUT LHS AND NOW WE'RE LETTING SOME OF THE FACULTY TELL US WHAT THEY THINK -- HERE'S WHAT SOME OF THEM HAD TO SAY WHEN WE ASKED:

What Will You Remember Most About The Class of 2000?

I

Will

I

Will

Remember...

"The willingness of my Spanish students to learn 50 chapters of vocabulary and 250 "modismos." You're a great group and I wish you all 'salud, amor, y pesetas y el tiempo para gozarlos'." ---Sra. Maloney

"How much 'class' they had. These seniors were as nice a group of students as I have been around during my tenure here at LHS. I will have fond memories of each and every one of them." --- Mr. Mucci

Sports teams performed well as usual, clubs met and held events, and concerts were met with the admiration and congratulations they are now accostmed to. As the new millenium approached, students and faculty wondered what the new year would have in store....

A Chance To Get Away

Natalie Levine

After an endless year of teachers dishing out hours of homework and assigning chapter tests, summer vacation is just what LHS students needed. Many students hoped to get away but, on the other hand, casual TV watching and snacking was satisfying enough for others. Sophomore Ste Whibey traveled North to Maine for the summer where she visited old friends and enjoyed tanning on the beach. Soph more Kerry O'Malley traveled the U.S. playing soccer for various teams and meeting new friends along the way. Traveling and exploring new places and sights proved a great way to pass the summer's time.

Whether you biked across the country or traveled over the seas, the relaxing break seemed to go by way too fast. But, it is great to know that everyone had a wonderful summer doing whatever they enjoy most. Even when scho started up again, it seemed as if students were counting down the days until winter break as early as the second day of school. LHS students enjoyed winter break in various ways, either heading north for some skiing or south for som sun, and still others enjoyed sleeping the week away here in Longmeadow. Whatever people decide to do, vacations are always an enjoyable time.

And the Countdown Begins Again

Sheetal Khera

Nothing could possibly be more dreaded by students than the first day of school. September signifies the beginning of fall, when the air becomes brisk, leaves start to change colors, and the appearance of pumpkins is just around the corner. However, with September also comes the school. As the 180-day countdown begins students file into the halls of LHS -- the same halls they left so joyously behind less than three years ago. Students this year were faced with a number of changes, including locked student parking lot doors at the stoke of 8 AM. Soon student settled into the familiar routine of classes, teachers, and homework. Unfortunately, with that came the realization that the carefree, relaxing days of summer were gone. There was no more going out every night or staying up to watch late night television. No, the only thing filling up appointment books now was Calculus, or US History, or even that summer reading that had to be hastily finished up. When all was said and done however, the students adjusted, and everyone, well most of us at least, survived yet another school year at LHS.

A Little R and R

Nicole Megatulski

Last block Friday: classes are almost empty and thos remaining are restless, glancing at the clock in anticipation of t 2:15 bell. Unless trapped in school for sports practice, the stud body and even most teachers can be seen fleeing the building. Students collect in the parking lot to discuss plans for the night plans that will undoubtedly be changed several times in the following hours. Finally! The weekend has begun!

Phones ring and arrangements are made as final plans Friday night are solidified. Some are obligated to work, study, play in a night game, but others head out for dinner, a movie, o hang out with friends at someone's house. Often times, elabora plans fall through and you find yourself driving around aimless and bored, but hey, there's always Saturday night!

Saturday afternoon. Those students, who do not wish procrastinate, begin their weekend work load of assignments. Others begin phone calls early, either making new plans or plan ning to re-attempt the old ones. Some weekends you may get l and find something fun to do, and others you may wish you ha stayed home, but in the end, there's always one guarantee for e weekend--plenty of homework for Sunday. Every weekend, th cycle begins again with students living each week for Friday.

Lunches

To The Mess Hall We Go

Jen Ranahan

As third block draws to a close, the echoes of empty stomachs can be heard throughout the halls of LHS. Yes, its that time again. Lunch block! The smell of the ever popular pasta and the scent of freshly baked cookies permeates the main hallway as preparations for the herds of hungry students are made. As the masses enter the cafeteria they segregate themselves by grade. Freshmen are pushed up against the far wall, sophomores and juniors in the middle, seniors in the spacious area next to the windows. It will only be three more years until those freshmen can safely wander into senior territory. Sophomores are enjoying a little more breathing room as they aren't forced to sit on those overcrowded tables against the wall any more. Juniors have now made it past the middle of the cafeteria and seniors have earned the rights to the most coveted tables in the building.

As the decision of where to sit has already been made in accordance to tradition, it's time to choose what to eat. It's a tough decision now that we have a snack bar complete with everything from pretzels to ice cream. (Buyer be ware: exact change is a must!) After only a half an hour of eating and socializing lunch is over and the next herd of hungry students starts to pile into the cafeteria as the process starts all over again. It's safe to say that lunch time at LHS is a much needed break from the rigors of academic classes and is the highlight of the day for many hard working students who need a little time to refuel.

"I Work Hard For My Money..."

Claudia Paren

High school is a collection of new experiences and obtaining a job for the first time is one of the many momentous (and often stressful) events associated with teenage life. Although some claim they simply do not have time to work, others are encouraged to enter the work force to save for a car or college, or merely to have extra spending money. For students here at LHS, handling the responsibilities of a job, schoolwork, sports practice, and other extracurricular activities becomes a difficult juggling act. Many workers soon learn effective time management skills as a result of their busy schedules. Junior Rachel Meyers says that her job at Burrow's Florist helped her budget her time, " My mother was afraid my grades would drop, but they actually went up because I knew I only had a certain amount of time to do my homework."

Student workers can be found engaging in a variety of jobs. Popular places of employment include: Big Y, Armatas, Blockbuster, Storrs Library, CVS, as well as numerous shops in the Holyoke Mall.

After the bell rings signaling the end of a long school day, "I have to go to work," can be heard echoing down the hallway as many rush off to their jobs.

The crates have arrived! Once again, the music department at Longmeadow High School sold an enormous amount of fruit. Two-thousand five hundred boxes of fruit were ordered to be delivered to the school. Upon their arrival, music students unloaded all of the fruit and arranged it on the stage to be picked up by the purchasers. However, selling the fruit was something else entirely.

Envelopes, order forms, and tally sheets were handed out to each student in their music class. It was up to them to sell as many oranges and grapefruits as they could to their families, friends, and neighbors. The money from the fruit sale is given to the music department to help pay for buses, equipment, and the Symphony Orchestra's trip to Carnegie Hall. Also, there is always a small incentive to sell the most fruit, because the choral student and the band/orchestra student who sells the most fruit each receive a cash reward of $50. This year senior Ariel Pardo sold an amazing $1,300 worth of fruit. Now that's a record to beat!

On Saturday December 4th, the orders were picked up in the auditorium. Students also took fruit to the street corner and sold what they could. The entire day was unbelievably crazy and fun with students running around carrying fruit, orders, and money. Yet again, the music department pulled off another successful fruit sale.

I.C.E Blocks

Let Me Outta Here!!

Sheetal Khera

This year signaled the second year that ICE blocks were being implemented throughout the school. These "Individual and Cooperative Experiences" have replaced the SLO's and free blocks of years past, and of course, are still just good ol' study halls. The ICE block system allows students to choose which rooms and which types of study hall, independent (silent) or cooperative (talking/whispering is permitted) they wanted. Sign in sheets were added to the library, and it was not unusual to see students racing down the hall to make sure they would be one of the few to be allowed in. However, passes were still needed to venture down to the music room, computer room, or any other room a student may have fancied. Overall, ICE blocks offered students some choice in how they wanted to spend their study halls. In most cases, however, much of that time was spent figuring out ways to escape the captivity. And with the new addition of hall and door monitors, escaping became more an art form than anything else.

There was a lot of laughing, dancing, soda, and tons of different costumes. Each costume was unique and there was an abundance of assorted animal figures, nerds, monsters, and Britney Spears wannabes. The DJ was great, as always, with a wide variety of music suiting everyone's tastes. The night was a ton of fun for everyone who attended and a great success for the Junior and Senior classes.

In this year's Thanksgiving showdown, the Weeds, coached by Mr. Delano, beat the Daisies, coached by Mr. Winseck, in an intense game that ended with a score of 8-6. The first half went scoreless due to the strong defense of both teams. Early in the second half, however, the Daisies pulled ahead when Nora Camp, team quarterback, ran the ball almost the entire length of the field for a touchdown. With the Daisies' failure to complete the 2-point conversion, however, the score was now 6-0. But the Weeds refused to give up. They came back strong, and with a mere two minutes remaining in the game, Molly Dullea ran the ball for a touchdown and then proceeded to complete the 2-point conversion. Both teams played exceptionally well. Alexis Mante from the Weeds and Alex Witzenburger from the Daisies were recognized as MVP's for their outstanding defense.

It's All About Second Semester

Nicole Megatulski

The senior assigned to write this article (which was due 2 months ago) has been overcome with the debilitating disease known as Senioritis. Therefore, I had to try to get around to writing it myself when I could, a few more months past the deadline.

Senioritis. It is the plague that has spread through and infected the entire class of 2000. It's inevitable. You can try to resist it but, sooner or later, you too will be infected. Symptoms of the disease include an increase in hours slept, nights going out (especially school nights), trips to Boston, attendance of sports events and concerts, and the number of deadlines neglected. Meanwhile, school attendance, participation in class, and studying all tend to decline.

For years these students have diligently labored to maintain high GPA's, score well on those ever-important standardized tests, and maintain good attendance and study skills, but with early acceptance and the mailing of mid-year grades, seniors finally feel free. Yes, there are still the deadlines of scholarships and demands of jobs but, for the most part, the rest of senior year is a hard-earned break, with the emphasis switching from academic perfection to bonding with classmates.

My only advice -- Enjoy it while you can guys, because come fall we'll be forced to give up our laziness for another four years of hard work.

Making A Statement

Nicole Megatulski

Whether it's the runways of Milan or the hallways of LHS, th latest fashions are everywhere. For the ladies, it's spring all year round soft lilac, butter yellow, rose pink, and ice blue pastels are still favorite We are beginning to see the immersion of more vibrant jewel tones as well, as fiery magenta is this year's most popular pick. Guys are still looking good in deep navy blue, maroon, cream, and white.

As for new styles, "controversial" loose capri pants can be se everywhere (you either love 'em or you hate 'em). For more casual da many turn to sporty Abercrombie-style shirts, a vest and flared jeans or drawstring cotton pants. For more dressy days, delicate sheer sweaters over a matching tank, accented with a touch of shimmery eye shadow, have proved quite a hit. Also, beaded bracelets are by far this year's m popular accessory. Abercrombie and Fitch rules the male student body' wardrobe. A t-shirt layered with a plaid sweater or vest, along with son loose khakis or jeans and a beloved baseball cap are the standard unifor For both girls and boys, New Balance sneakers tread over all the floors LHS.

Of course, these styles do not apply to all students at LHS. Here, we are lucky to have a wide variety of tastes, where almost every type of dress is represented. Amidst the more traditional styles, you ca spot occasional animal prints, stripes, camouflage, vinal, leather, rivete jackets, and every other pattern or material imaginable. This diversity tastes and styles makes the fashion aspect of LHS very unique.

Party All Night Long

Sheetal Khera

As the night of January 16th and the annual Jr/Sr Semi approached, many a converstation was held concerning dresses, corsages, dinner, and all of the other decisions that go into preparing for such a night. As tradition holds, the dance was held in theGrand Ballroom at the beautiful Chez Josef. Girls and guys made their entrances; the girls were dressed in all of the latest fashions and colors while the guys sported the traditional dark suit and tie. While the room was beautifully decorated, few took the time to notice before rushing out onto the dance floor. In fact, the dance floor remained packed as the DJ played a variety of music and kept the party going. Those who eventually stopped to catch their breath, grabbed a drink from the soda bar and had took the chance to speak with the people milling around outside. As the night wore on, shoes came off, ties were loosened, and bobby pins and flower petals littered the dance floor. The night at Chez Josef eventually came to an end, but that was far from the end of the night for many people as they gathered their belongings and headed out to various post-dance parties. All in all, the night was a lot of fun for all who attended and it left everyone with memories they'll treasure forever.

A tradition continued as the Senior Class officers chose Tony Award winning Guys and Dolls as this year's Senior Class Play. In September, seniors who had expressed interest the previous year were interviewed and selected for the production staff. Auditions were held immediately after and resulted in a cast of over one hundred, and for the next two and a half months the seniors practiced their lines, songs, and dances, built and painted sets, and organized t-shirt, ad, and ticket sales. Time until the opening night seemed to vanish. Even in the midst of a nervous cast and crew, the opening number sung by Evan Berg, Evan LaFlamme, and Mike Roberts set the stage for a show that would bring the house down. The four lead characters Miss Adelaide, Nathan Detroit, Sky Masterson, and Sarah Brown played by Rebecca Jangraw, Matthew Chandler, Jake Porway, and Nora Camp, respectively, captivated their audience with New York accents, great numbers, and professional acting. All the hard work and stress appeared to pay off as Friday's audience gave a standing ovation when the house curtain came down. However it wasn't the singing, show stopping dances of the Hot Box Girls and Cuban Dancers, or the crazy ad lib's of the crapshooters that made the play such a success. It was a senior class that managed to come together for the first time and created a memory we'll all remember forever.

Memories To Last A Lifetime

Sheetal Khera

From the minute we were born, we began gathering memories of people, places, and experiences that will stay with us forever. We'll remember how we spent our carefree childhood days, whether it was playing in the sandbox, running through the neighbor's sprinkler, or playing dress-up. Then came those tentative steps into either Wolf Swamp, Blueberry, or Center School for the first day of kindergarten. Before we knew it we were on our way to face the next big challenge: elementary school. The next four years were filled with full days of school, broken up by two recesses of course, during which we learned all the basics--reading, writing, and 'rithmetic. First grade quickly turned into second and then into third as we delved deeper into multiplication and division. Our days were filled with games of Around the World, as well as interesting presentations from the various student teachers we had. Then we finally reached what we thought was the top of the world -- fourth grade. As fourth graders, we were elected to the safety patrol and helped our fellow classmates cross the dangerous side streets of Longmeadow. In June, we donned the colors of our respective Field Day teams and participated in a fun-filled day of crab soccer, stepping stones, and relay races. And through all of this we forged friendships that have lasted the last fourteen years. Our years in the sandbox may have ended as we graduated from fourth grade and made our way through the middle school and eventually into the high school, but the memories of the fun and the experiences we had will be with us forever.

The Yearbook is not an organization for those who sometimes turn in a paper a bit late. Because the annual yearbook must be completed by the end of March, yearbook editors and staffers must move to the ticking of the clock. They have to create quality work, much of which is needed mere weeks after it is assigned.

From September until March many diligent workers never see daylight. Perhaps, if they're lucky, they can catch a glimpse of the setting sun through the window of Rm. 113, Yearbook headquarters. They organize and crop pictures, write numerous copy articles and captions, create layout for pages, and take care of the business aspect as well.

The largest burden falls on the shoulders of Co-Editors-in-Chief Sheetal Khera and Jon Steiner. They not only assist with the jobs outlined above, but they must also organize meetings, and inspire the staff to meet deadlines. Roger LeBlanc, the Yearbook's faculty advisor, also deserves credit for sacrificing his afternoons to make this edition of Masacksic the best edition ever.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Character, Scholarship, Leadership, Service

The 1999-2000 National Honors Society (no applause necessary)

Sheetal Khera

The National Honors Society (NHS) is a club dedicated to community service, character, scholarship, and leadership. Ms. Bailey took over the position of club advisor this year and helped the club plan numerous fund-raisers and activities. At the end of the second semester, qualified juniors and seniors were invited to apply fro membership to the club. When accepted, members were asked to commit themselves to community and school service. One of the major accomplishments for the club this year was the installation of a tutoring room within the high school. The room was open during every block of the day and interested students could go there to be tutored in any subject by a qualified NHS student. The members were also involved in such projects as volunteering at the Jewish Nursing Home, collecting soup and socks for the needy, and they also held a car wash in May. The club was led for the first half of the year by last year's junior board and the second half by a newly elected junior board.

On the floor, in trash and recycling bins, flying in the wind, stuffed into a dirty locker...It's possible to find a copy of the Jet Jotter almost anywhere. However, despite the final use and location of the newspaper, hours of work are put into the production of each issue. Under the leadership of senior editor-in-chief Caitlin Hicks, the Jet Jotter editorial staff quickly set to work on improving upon last year. Implementing new organizational systems led to the achievement of many goals. Consequently, the number of contributing staff writers increased, as did the number of printed issues released.

Such success has allowed the Jet Jotter to expand to other newsworthy causes. Newspaper staff and other willing volunteers collaborated during the winter holidays to adopt a family. Many people responded to the family's needs by providing money and gifts. Additionally, the staff supplied various holiday treats along with a copy of the most recent Jet Jotter to repicients of Meals on Wheels.

Jet Jotter advisor Mrs. Morse sums up the year by saying, "Nothing can replace youthful, creative, ethical enthusiasm. Their team work approach is a model for 21st century collaboration in the business environment."

The Rough Draft is one of the two student newspapers here at LHS. The staff is composed of a group of self-described aspiring writers looking to fill a newspaper with parody, sarcasm, and maybe some actual journalistic facts (when the occasional, rare, and unexpected news happens) about life, social problems, and school. Not only does the Rough Draft provide a valuable outlet for mockery and satire for the entire school system, but after all these year the school still pays for it. Mr. Ellis advised the Rough Draft, and kept many of the staff out of the realm of liability while senior Nick Duquette, Editor-in-Chief, stayed up until the early hours of the morning in order to get the paper published. This year's Rough Draft produced many issues, including the hilarious and well-received Prestigious University edition.

Impressions, the LHS literary magazine, has had a very successful year. A staff that continued previous years' trends, increased in number once again this year, and read, reviewed, selected, and published its annual collection of student art and writing.

The magazine was led this year by Editors-in-Chief senior Nicolas Duquette and Lorisa Hasenbush, and was advised by Mrs. Linda McShane. He was helped and supported by numerous editors along with dozens of other dedicated staff.

Not just a portfolio of student work, this year's Impressions staff followed last year's in trying to make the magazine one continuous work that was more pleasing to read than earlier editions. Art and writing of similar themes were placed together, and the order of the selections was done to make Impressions as enjoyable to read as possible. The magazine has become a great place for students to express themselves to their fellow students in a variety of artistic forms.

The club met every Thursday, and would just use the time to speak about everyday things as well as listen to different types of Spanish music. South American exchange students, Diego Epherra and Fernanda Zamora also shared some stories of life in Argentina and Chile respectively with the club. The club members participated in numerous community service projects and each is required to perform twenty-five hours of service per quarter. This year the club continued to run the concession stand during the football season along with the many other projects they participated in. Members also spent time this year working to organize a book collection, run the Healthy Kids Festival, organize a Bike Rodeo, and work with the Safe Homes Network to make Longmeadow a safer place for everyone.

I don't do it and I also don't do drugs." The signs that the club puts up around the school are effective, because they make students think. "If you're going to drink and drive tonight, don't forget to kiss your mother goodbye," was one of the club's more powerful reminders about the deadly consequences drunk driving can have. The club meets every month in Mrs. Wiseman's room to discuss drunk driving and how it affects students here at LHS. Composed of students from grades nine through twelve, and conducted by Mr. Michael Mucci, the Concert Band tackled some challenging music this year. The students enjoyed the freedom and responsibility Mr. Mucci gave them to select their own music. Performing in three concerts this year, the band chose to perform, "Renaissance Suite," Faure's "Pavane," and "The Washington Post March" at the Fall Concert The group also combined with the Wind Ensemble, forming the enormous Symphonic Band, to perform the theme to "Mission: Impossible." Overall, the members of the Concert Band and Mr. Mucci were very proud of the things they accomplished this year.

"The Longmeadow High School Jazz Band is an integral component of our musical curriculum," says Mr. Michael Mucci, director of the band. The group, selected by audition in December, devotes many hours to the study of jazz, a truly American art form. The Jazz Band meets at school during the week to rehearse pieces for performances at the Pops Concert in February and the Spring Concert in May, and Long Meddowe Days, also in May. The group also elected to perform in the annual Western District IAJE competition, where they won another gold medal. "The Jazz Band is a high energy group that is always exciting to work with," Mucci says. And exciting to listen to as well. The group has gained much popularity with LHS students, who look forward to hearing these outstanding musicians perform. We can't wait to see what the band will amaze us with next.

This year's Lyrics group experienced a great year. Their performances at the Winter and Major Works Concerts were excellent. The many solos showcased the wide range of talent in this year's group. "A Dog Named Ego" one of the group's pieces for the Winter Concert was unique and very intriguing. The group also performed "Spiderman" at the Pops Concert held in February. In early April, the group performed at the annual MICA festival, and later in the year performed in Montreal. Overall, the group had another exciting and successful concert season.

Men's Chorus

This year's Men's Chorus upheld the high standards set for it in years past. The popularity of the chorus continues to increase, as they grew in numbers yet again this year. The chorus impressed audiences with their performances at the Fall and Pops Concerts, as well as the annual middle schools tour. The group is sure to continue to grow in size after audience members enjoyed the excellent performances of songs, such as Sting's "Let Your Soul Be Your Pilot." Junior Kevin Conboy summed up the year saying, "We had a lot of great performances and we had a lot of fun doing it."

This year, La Cappella, the all-female vocal ensemble here at LHS, underwent some changes but still managed to perform beautifully. Under new direction this year (after the departure of Jim Dehls) the group had many wonderful performances. They performed many popular songs such as, "Ain't No Mountain High Enough." This year's group, composed of sophomore, junior, and senior girls, was split into two separate classes, continuing last year's trend. This allowed for more individual attention and practice with performing in smaller groups. The girls showed their continuous effort and determination in their frequent night rehearsals, where the two classes practiced together. Overall, this year was an enjoyable experience.

This year's Women's Chorus had another outstanding year of performances. The group is composed entirely of freshmen, and they performed in both the Fall and Pops Concerts. Making their debut in November's Fall Concert, the group impressed everyone with their wonderful performances of popular songs. The group continued to rehearse and improve as the year went on, and the opportunity to show everyone in the spring with their crowd-pleasing performance of "Build Me Up Buttercup." Overall, the Women's Chorus had an enjoyable year and many of its members plan on continuing in the Choral program by joining La Cappella next year.

Women's Chorus

Sheetal Khera

The '99-'00 Concert Season was sensational and will be remembered for many years to come. It began with the annual Fall Concert, which was held on November 23rd, and featured the Concert Band and a number of the various choral groups. Among the pieces the Concert Band played, Faure's "Pavane," was a huge hit with the audience. The Fall Concert was also the debut of the Freshmen Women's Chorus. They performed "Hush-A-Bye." La Cappella and the Men's Chorus also performed.

Next up on the concert schedule was the ever-popular Winter Concert held on December 21st. This concert brought the first performances for both the Wind Ensemble and Symphony Orchestra, as well as I Cantori and Lyrics. I Cantori opened the show and were followed by the Wind Ensemble. The Orchestra played three pieces and their finale, which featured junior Stephanie Chen playing Mozart's "Piano Concerto No. 20," brought the audience to their feet in a standing ovation. This was just the start of the Orchestra's fabulous year, as they later went on to perform in Carnegie Hall in April. The Wind Ensemble also performed during the Winter Concert, featuring pieces that highlighted their immense talent. I Cantori and Lyrics also performed, singing better than ever, with Lyrics' "A Dog Named Ego" being one of the more interesting pieces. And what would any Winter Concert be without the Super Chorus. The Super Chorus consists of all the vocalist groups as well as LHS alumni back home for Winter Break, together on stage at once singing the traditional, "The Lord Bless and Keep You."

The annual Pops Concert was also a smashing success this year. The concert featured a special performance from the Symphonic Band, which is a combination of Wind Ensemble and Concert Band. Their performance of music from "Mission Impossible" was a huge hit with the audience. There were also numerous performances by the LHS choral groups that night. The Women's Chorus performed well singing "Build Me Up Buttercup." La Cappella was also a hit with their performance of "Ain't No Mountain High Enough," which also featured selected solos. Men's Chorus also performed, as did Lyrics who did their version of "Spiderman," complete with masks and everything. The chorus' also combined to do an outstanding performance of Sting's "Let Your Soul Be Your Pilot." The outstanding LHS Jazz Band was also featured that night, performing three outstanding pieces.

Overall, the extensive musical talents, both instrumental and vocal, of the students here at LHS were well showcased throughout the year, with many outstanding and memorable performances.

Musical Moments to Remember: 1999-2000

I want a cookie and a blanket
You're back on the boat spitting out fish
Treat every rehearsal like it's a concert
Fire! Fire!
Yap, Yap, Yap, I'm a teenager
I'm going to be a chest drummer
Don't sound like a high school orchestra/band
It's your integrity on the line, baby!
Go home and bug your parents
Ewww... that's gross
Shimmer, shimmer, shimmer
Zingo, zango
Doubly augmented
That's premium chalk , baby!
This chalk is atomizing in my hand
Captain, we're losing lines
Go reap the academic harvest
This is mama chalk
Was that a monkey?
It looks all skanky and stuff
Prokofiev baby, using the old neopolitan
Let's try the "C-Section" again
If you know the 4 pattern, you're a music major
Short looks for long
I want to die on my podium
Don't worry, the cool kids are at McDonalds
I'll bite your friggin' arm off!
Black and White makes Purple
At MYWE...
Heart on fire, brain on ice
Ohhh.... that's a good one! I have to write that down

SUPERBOWL CHAMPIONS 1999! Longmeadow Football's third straight Superbowl win is a rewarding validation for the years of effort and hard work put forth by the team. Coached by Alex Rotsko and led by senior co-captains Andrew Krill and Joe Mujalli, the team finished the season with an outstanding record of 9-2.

The season was packed with highlights. In their very first game, the Lancers beat rivals Cathedral--the only team to beat them last year. Their first victory gave them the spirit to go all the way. Although always close in previous years, they demolished North Hampton in the Superbowl determining game. Held at Worchester State, the Lancers were victorious over Shrewsbury 36-21 in the1999 Superbowl.

This year's senior members of the team, who have only lost 5 games during their high school career, had quite a record of their own. In 1996 they were undefeated as freshmen. In 1997 and 1998, they were Division 2 Superbowl champions, and this year, Division 1 Superbowl champs. Considering no other team in Western Massachusetts has ever won three consecutive Superbowls, the team has built quite a reputation, deserving of respect. Summing up thepast four years, Joe Mujalli remarks, "I couldn't have worked with a better bunch of guys. We treat each other like family. We won together and we lost together, but together we will always be champions."

Many good athletes are expected to fill the positions of the current seniors when they leave next year. If they listen to Coach Rotsko's advice and play hard, they should put together another winning campaign and, hopefully, another Superbowl win.

CHEERLEADING

Nicole Megatulski

Once again, under coaches Pricilla Diaz and Ellie Matroni, the LHS Cheerleading squad came together and proved their strength in competition as well as football and basketball game cheers. This year, the squad placed first Western Mass and third in the state for their division, missing nationals by one place.

Unlike most school sports, cheerleading spans two seasons in which their numerous obligations--practicin routines, cheering for games, making posters to publicize the games, and hosting the annual pep-rally--can become a balancing act in itself. Still, the cheerleaders never loose their spirit and why should they? They've been cheering for Super Bowl Champions for the past three years while placing high in their competitions.

Led by co-captains, seniors Brooke Giguere and Krystle Lalimarmo, and junior Niki Alexopolous, the avera practice consists of stunts, jumps, gymnastics, dance, and, of course, cheer. Underlying the precarious lifts and powe basket-tosses is a strong sense of trust and teamwork. Squad members learn to communicate and help each other out the mat, in the sidelines, and on the court. Captain Brooke Giguere sums up the two seasons, "We've come a long wa since the beginning of the season and it has been a privilege for me to be captain of such a great team. I love them all

The J.V. Cheerleading squad, having many talented freshmen, are expected to continue the current reputation of the LHS cheerleaders in coming years.

CROSS COUNTRY

Nancy Picknally

This year's Girl's and Boy's Cross Country teams both enjoyed extremely fun and highly successful seasons. The team rallied under the direction of new Head Coach Beth Elliot and Assistant Coach Jeff McCarthy, as well as Senior Captains Travis DiRuzza, Jim Weinmann, and Nancy Picknally. With record numbers of underclassmen running for the girls, the team showcased lots of new talent, including Lizzie Grodd, and Alison Basdekis. The boys also grew considerably as a team, with Jim Weinman and Jon LaFrance consistently leading the pack. As always, a big part of this year's season was unity, as the team gathered before every meet to eat spaghetti and cookies and get each other psyched up. This team unity made an impression on sophomore Lizzie Grodd, who summed up the season by saying "It was a great season, everyone came together and really gave it their all."

MEN'S SOCCER

Susie Moore

The Longmeadow High School men's varsity soccer team ended the fall of '99 season with a record of 7-9. With senior co-captains Tim Murphy, John Doney, Brian Weeks, and Mike Roberts, it's amazing they didn't come out number one. Coach Pantuosco remembers their 4-1 victory at Agawam, where he says "the seniors were awesome." That's true--many players made some outstanding achievements. Senior Mike Roberts, a goalie, made the All-Western Mass 2nd team, as did John Doney, a defender, and junior Jay Bentley, a forward. Both senior Pat O'Malley, a forward, and senior Tim Murphy, a defender, are congratulated for making All-Western Mass 1st team as well as All State. However, even with so many good things happening to them, it took only one unfortunate incident to have a secondary effect to the whole team. In the first game of the season, senior and co-captain Brian Weeks broke his arm, but the team didn't give up. Head coach John Pantuosco, assisted by Frank Stellato and Don Hume, had a team and a season to be proud of. Coach Pantuosco tries to express his confidence in them in a few words, "In a year full of hope and promise, I hope the best for these young men and I promise that hard work and integrity will help them there."

WOMEN'S SOCCER

Jessica Dugre

Women's soccer entered the season with Head Coach Russotto's motto "There is no substitute for desire." Desire would help the team reach the semifinals against Cathedral. Led by their senior co-captains Courtney Brown, Molly Dullea, Laura Harwood, Cathy Nowicki, and Melissa Martinelli, the team held and enjoyed many dinners to increase their unity, not to mention their annual costumed appearance at the Back-To- School Dance. On the field, sophomore Kerry O'Malley was the leading scorer earning her place along with Courtney Brown and Molly Dullea on the first all-star team for Western Mass. Coach Butler's inspirational quotes and newspaper clippings always gave the team the added confidence they needed for a great season.

Field Hockey

Brianna Murphy

Probably one of the most exciting field hockey games of the Millennium was the night the Lancers took on Amherst in the Semi-Finals of the Western Mass Championships at Smith College. It was a cold November night and there were hundreds of fans supporting the girls as they played a double overtime game, losing in a "sudden death" match. The game was very exciting, and the senior co-captains Karin Ross, Nora Camp, and Caroline Adams did a great job all year with the team through injuries, sickness, and a few tough losses and ties. The season was a success especially as a "rebuilding year" because of the loss of twelve seniors from the previous year. The team had nothing to lose, and they proved it out on the field all season long.

VOLLEYBALL

Jocelyn Farmer

The Girl's Varsity Volleyball team was faced with a huge challenge this past season. With only three returning players, the team was labeled from the start as inexperienced and was not predicted to do well. Due to the strong leadership of Coach Rita Hawker and senior Co-Captains Meghan Kennedy, Kristin Katoski, and Jocelyn Farmer however, the team truly pulled together and ended their season with the strongest record in LHS volleyball history. In addition, this year's team was the first ever to make it to the Western Mass semi-finals, beating the number two seated West Springfield tea in an intense quarterfinal match. Senior Jocelyn Farmer comments, "This year's team really put LHS volleyball on the map. We overcame every challenge that awaited us with heart and desire an-d, if nothing else, we made the sport a pleasure to watch."

With only three seniors leaving this year, the team has an extremely bright future. Clearly, this year was only the beginning.

GOLF

Nicole Megatulski

This year the LHS Golf Team had a challenging season, finishing with a 7-10-12 record. The team showed some improvement over last season with the help of the leadership of their senior co-captains, Ryan Birtwell and Jon Orenstein. Coached by Mike Roy, all of the team members worked hard and supported each other to pull off some pretty tough wins. The most important this was that the players had fun throughout the whole season, really growing as a team. The LHS golf team did show potential this season and with the continuous hard work of the players, the team looks forward to victorious seasons in the upcoming years.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Sheetal Khera

The Boys Varsity Basketball team experienced quite a turn-around this year. After going 5-15 last year the team pulled together, worked hard and produced a 10-7 record this year. With strong senior leadership and impressive new young talent the boys team managed to pull of some very important wins, and were cheered on all season long by fans who packed the bleachers of every home game. The team, coached by Hassan Robinson, also made it all the way to the first round of the Playoffs, where they unfortunately lost to an impressive opponent.

The JV and Freshmen teams also had impressive seasons and they showcased a lot of talent which will undoubtedly continue the success of this year's team.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Brianna Murphy

Having lost in the semifinals for tow years in a row, the Girls Varsity basketball team thought they could win it all this season. Although they went undefeated for fifteen consecutive games, they were not successful in the end. However, this season was the best season in over ten years. With excellent senior leadership from Jocelyn Farmer and tri-captains Molly Dullea, Marisa Moseley, and Brianna Murphy, the team worked well together on and off the court. A huge success in the season was when the team went to Bristol, CT and beat the number one, undefeated team who went on to win the state championship with only one loss. This game proved to the girls that they could really play well together. The girls were able to do many things that no one has done at LHS for many years, such as drawing in a sold-out crowd in the gym and winning fifteen consecutive games. The season ended with an unanticipated loss to Amherst in the semifinals at AIC. The team's final record was 19-3. The team was coached by Wayne Paterson, Mike Roy, and Kelsey Scarpa.

SKIING

Sheetal Khera

This year's ski team was led by senior captains Karin Ross and Mike Tinervia. This year's team featured a bunch of seasoned veterans as well as many new faces. All team members practiced starts each day and tried to make it up to Blanford once or twice a week to practice on snow. Though finding good ski conditions around here this winter was a bit difficult, but the team managed just fine.

With the benefit of good coaching and strong leadership, the team finished a successful season and participated in the Western Mass competition. Here, members and parents gathered for an exciting day and to cheer on their teammates.

Also, the girls' team finished in second place in the A Division and qualified as a team for States. Overall, the team had a very successful and fun season.

We'd like to take this opportunity to thank all of the people who have dedicated so much time and effort in putting together this edition of the Masacksic. We'd also like to thank you the reader for your interest, and we remind you that all captions and quotes are in good-natured fun.

Special thanks to our Jostens' Representative, Matt Fenn. For everything that went wrong, he had the answer, and he was kind enough to look the other way as we extended every deadline possible. We could never have done it without him, and we give him our everlasting thanks.

And finally, we thank Mr. LeBlanc. He put up with more than any advisor should have to. He stuck with us through all of the complaining and the whining over the last two years. He has invested so much of his time and spirit into our endeavor, and we thank him for being there not only as an advisor, but as a friend. We truly could not have done it without him. Thank you, Rog, from the bottom of our hearts.

Congratulations to the Class of 2000... We will remember you ...
